Prelube: East 40th

Thanks to all that made out Thursday. It was a good run, different part of the city. Walking hare was Blowin' Ho's for the missing Cheap & Easy and Pucker Sucker. I got there a little late (not fair) and that is the reason I am writing this and you are reading this, if you indeed choose to read it, which if you have gotten this far are obviously reading it. We had one brave soul (fool) in shorts, hats off to you Mobey's and a born again virgin by the name of Krista.

The runners set off to the west across the school grounds with Pucker haring, and within seconds Pleasure Chest was down due to a flashlight malfunction. This jaunt to the west ended in one of many false trails of which I seem to have got suckered into following. The trail was tough and unfair, apparently designed by a real hare. We kept on going, yadda yadda yadda.

The walkers had their own adventure, led by Blowin' Ho's. Let's just say they saw a lot of pretty lights and the only thing that saved them was a map and the miracle that is GPS.

Made it to the Hash hold at Pucker's, where we were treated by Cheap & Easy to meats and cheeses and the like. It beats the hell out of the usual Doritos and licorice. Nice change. Back to Circle, where more beer awaited us thanks to our faithful Swill Meister Wet Denim and punishments which were unfair and then off to Chillabongs for additional revelry and pleasant conversation.

Cheers and ON ON
