Run #918 – Oct 6th 2016

Hares : Cheap-N-Easy & Blowin Hose

Location: Wilkins Green

Prelube: Mr. Mikes

On On: Tilted Kilt

Scribe: Whore Sleigher

Approximately 7 to 43 Hashers showed up for run 918 in a stately wooded area in the fine subdivision of Westpark, hared by the lovely Cheap-n-Easy, and suave Blowin Hose. It was a cool, but not a cold evening; a slight breeze rustled the autumn coloured leaves as we gathered for the circle up. The air was laden with estrogen, (a lot of ladies that night), the moon was there somewhere and I think I heard a dog bark, possible unconfirmed Sasquatch sighting.

The pre-lube caused some pit stops prior to the run, fortunately Cheap-n-Easy and Blowin Hose live nearby and could offer a comfortable facility for relief to several of the pre-lube attendees.

Blowin Hose started us off with a brilliant explanation of the trail markings, (I didn't actually know that was what we are supposed to do, explain it like it's everyone's first time). Truly an excellent job. I will up my game for next time as I heard some whining about my camo flour and vague nonsensical explanation from a few weeks back.

Then it was time to pick the scribe, Blowin Hose walked over to a random shrubbery and hauled a beer bottle out without hesitation. I'm gonna say that either the woods are full of beer bottles there or Blowin Hose may want to cut back a little.

Anyway what are the odds that when he spun the bottle it would land on me? Somewhere between 1 in 5 and 1 in 41.

I liked the route, a lot of back alleys, a lot of cool stuff, some great furniture, pretty cool kid's bike, and some cool old cars. I think back alleys are where you see what people are really like, kinda messy, half finished projects, 5 foot tall weeds, and broken junk. The front of a house is what people want you to see, it's the back alley that's real.

Also, some woodsy trails, lots of great places to pee. Much better than behind a transformer. (as an electrician I highly discourage this practice) Drippy!!!

I have to say the highlight was Mobys mistaken hash hold. Turns out the kids in this certain house in Westpark made some pretty convincing hash marks when they were playing with chalk in the driveway.

Thanks to Deep Throat and Urine My Way for graciously offering their garage for the hash hold festivities. A few of the ladies played giant Jenga. There was a lot of cheating going on, some two handed stuff, quite a bit of testing, and even the use of the shit by Slippery to dislodge a stubborn section. Cum see had the last go, it was leaning pretty good by this time, and went over, tough break. I really thought you were gonna get it.

About half of the hashers showed up at the Tilted Kilt for extra fun. ( I'm gonna say 4 or 20) where we were served by a buxom lass from the spirit world, who I don't think was Scottish at all.

Anyway lots of fun, thanks all.

Upcoming Run

Run #919 - Oct 13th **ZOMBIE RUN****

Hare(s): Hymen Trouble

Location: Lacombe Corn Maze (Kraay Family Farm)

Cost: 11 dollars if 25 people or more, 13 dollars if less than 25 people ...please bring exact change if you can

Theme: Run for your Life!! ZOMBIES

This Run will be a bit scary for some people, there will be some Hashers whose job it is to creep up on you and tag you if they can. Depending on how many times you get tagged, you will be infected and become a zombie or you will survive and be part of the future gene pool.

We have permission to play this tag game out here but we need to be careful not to scare any innocent bystanders so unfortunately that means no scary costumes.

Please try to show up a few minutes early so that we can get the admission all figured out.
