What a wonderful night and wonderful theme for a run! I'm still not sure what else it's going to take to bring the rest of you Lazy Asses out but you missed a good one! We circled up and drank a few shots of Bad Hare beer before getting down to business. Besides the standard markings, we were also treated to a few YBF (You've Been Fucked). Those were actually ok this time because, even though they marked a false trail, they were also an indication that treasure could be found nearby. Prizes were distributed and Nicole and I received flashy neon green light bracelets for our awesome outfits!

Off we went and yes, we got wet just about immediately. What good Harriette doesn't like getting a little wet anyway? The runners soon found their first treasure which was clearly marked with a large letter. The hunt was on! By this time, I had figured out the devious plan hatched by Lazy Sir Cums A Lot and shared my strategy with Nicole. With only 2 runners and my strong desire to be drinking beer before midnight we had to get creative.

Walkers were doing well too. Lazy Hymen Trouble hadn't even participated in setting trail so her and Cum See My Box were both looking for clues. Why one would choose a path where you end up rubbing yourself all over a prickly bush is beyond me but hey, if Hymen likes to pick pine needles out of her wooha who am I to judge where she gets her kicks from? At least she got the clue.

In the meantime, I ended up by myself at the bottom of the stairs in Rotary Park looking at the "Hold and Wait" marking. There's no way a semi-sober person would wait there by themselves at that time of night and I could see a couple flour marking on the stairs so up I went. Had it been anybody other than Sir Cums A Lot who set trail, I would've never thought that a hare would dare take us up this treacherous path.

I made it all the way up and found no flour WTF! Going back down was even worse than going up. I later learned that the hare had fallen on the dangerous stairs while setting trail and decided not to go up that path after all. Guess he was too lazy to remove the misleading flour markings!

We eventually gathered all the treasures/clues and figured out where the Hash Hold was. And it was some Hash Hold! Black, White, Green, whatever you're into it was there. We had to remind Nicole she still wasn't named even though there were many options floated around. I think she finally figured out she'll never get named and we just want her to keep doing silly stuff. We then shared stories of how we all got our names and other crazy shit. This ended up being one of everybody's favorite Hash Hold ever. Who needs quantity when you have quality?

We drank more beer and a special prize was given to Nicole for being the most challenged at finding the clues. Yep, this girl can't see shit even if it's 4 inches wide and shiny sitting right in front of her face. Well she won't have any trouble seeing her prize because it's big! Very big! I've never seen anyone being so excited to be the newest owner of the FAT GIRLS PORN video! Guess everyone one got lucky after all.
