Hare(s): Wet Denim & Sir Nookey

Location: Sylvan Lake

Prelube: Legion in Sylvan

On On: Wingin' it Sylvan Lake

Scribe: Mz Dazey

A great day for a run. 17 hashers came out under the threat of a severe thunderstorm warning, but Wee, Mz D and Whore Slayer kept everyone waiting due to the Bladder of Wee. Sorry about that but a good mingle time was had by all.

The circle was called to order, and Chips asked for a moment of silence in remembrance of Heather (I'm Cumming), who sadly passed away last weekend. She will always be remembered for her smile and love of life and will be sadly missed by us all.

The hares Nookey and Wet Denim explained the markings. There was much rejoicing at the mention of an “RG”.

The hares sent the pack on their way with Nookey (Miata hare) following with map in hand and one task in mind. The Walkers bush-wacked through typical Wet Denim shiggy, and made it through a nasty barbed wire fence unscathed thanks to the watchful eyes of Cumsee and Strippy Tipper.

The runners (to quote Donald) were sent up a VERY, VERY, BAD hill by the BAD HARE PEOPLE, as confirmed by a whining hasher (Whore Slayer) who couldn't believe that sweet Wet Denim would ever have done something like that! Obviously a WD run virgin, who doesn't know the scheming ways of Wicked Wet Denim!!!

After a quick break for an RG, the runners were seen heading west into the impending gloom of the severe thunderstorm creeping our way. The walkers went in the opposite direction in search out the Hash Hold which was located, after many a bush search along the shoreline. Further exploration found a deserted (unfortunately) den of iniquity. The writing on the wall lead us to believe this was frequented at one time by The First Hashers. Cumsee went to investigate and barely escaped a “slippery when wet” moment for which she was duly punished. Cum Liquor Snatch, Mz Dazey, Wee & Whore Slayer enjoyed a cool one on the beach, while Wet Denim, Preemie, G Spot, Shady Lady and Strippy Tipper, aided by the late arrival of Sir Cums & Nookie, enjoyed the HH in the bush.

The runners, after having so much fun on the epic trail, (who knew the Sunny-side Christian Retreat could be so invigorating), were finally given a break when Sir Mobeys eventually found an arrow which he swore wasn't there the dozen or so times they went passed that corner. Upon seeing the Red Miata driving off in the distance, he followed with haste to be the first to arrive at the Hash Hold, closely followed by Chips, Curb, Slippery, Booty Call and Pleasure Chest. Being kind and generous, the walkers did leave some swill and excellent Birthday Cake (lovely combination of Zucchini, chocolate and Frosting baked by the lovely Wet Denim). There were candles, loud singing, balloons, and a veritable feast of munchies to celebrate Preemie & G Spot's birthdays. After the festivities, and convincing Cumsee and Cum Liquor Snatch that the party in the cave was over, we headed back to the Circle up.

By now the storm warning was a little bit more than a warning and punishments were given out to the Hares, notably for the confusing “No No” signs, for setting the trail from the Miata, Nookie’s magical Arrow, AND the dastardly barbed wire!! The Birthday pair managed to get a sweet treat from Mitzi in which they showed great expertise (seems like they have done this before)!! Cumsee took one for the Slippery moment. Whore Slayer was duly punished for leaving the runners after the RG, as he overheard the hare saying it was only going to be a short loop!!! Oh ye of little faith! That was Wet Denim you were listening too!! Also dragged in was Liquor Snatch, who was punished for not running, Mz D and Wee were punished for finally getting the 20th Anniversary shirts to their rightful owners, also for your information: we have a few spares of these “one of a kind shirts” left, so please let me know, if interested.

Announcements were made - if you’re going to CAMPU, let PC or Urine know or no Haberdashery for you.

Nookey came out of his Miata to make an announcement but the cold got to his brain so we’ll leave that for another time.

When the charges were read and punishments delivered the pack headed to “Wing It” at Sylvan Lake. First time for the On On and a great time was had and thankfully we made it inside before the storm warning became a reality.
